2. Statutory Authority

Statutes Interpreted: ss. 101.02 (1), and 101.82 and 101.84 (3), Stats.,

3. Related Statute or Rule

4. Explanation of Agency Authority

Currently, municipalities determine on an individual basis whether the persons undertaking electrical wiring need to be certified. The department certifies electricians on a voluntary basis to facilitate fulfillment of municipal certification requirements. The enactment of 2007 Wisconsin Act 63 will require persons performing electrical wiring any where in the state on and after April 1, 2013 to be licensed by the department. Local municipal licensing requirements and programs for electricians will also end on April 1, 2013.

5. Summary of Proposed Rules

The proposed rules establish administrative procedures for licensing of electrical contractors and electricians as mandated by 2007 Wisconsin Act 63. The rules establish two new specialty categories for electricians, industrial and residential. The scope of work for industrial electricians will be limited to the facilities and properties of their employers. The scope of work for residential electricians will be limited to that associated with dwellings, dwelling units and detached accessory buildings and structures serving the dwellings or the dwelling units, such as garages, carports, gazebos and swimming pools.

6. Summary of, and Comparison with, Existing or Proposed Federal Regulations

An internet search on U.S. federal regulations and U.S. federal register yielded no results regarding the licensing of electrical contractors and electricians.

7. Comparison with Rules in Adjacent States

Illinois: Illinois does not license or certify electricians or electrical contractors at the state level. Electrical licensing and certification is at the discretion of the local municipality.

Iowa: As of January 1, 2008 Iowa requires electrical contractors and electricians to be state licensed. License types for electricians includes master, journeyman, apprentice, unclassified and special. A special electrician licenses carries one or more of the following endorsements: irrigation system wiring, disconnecting and reconnecting existing air conditioning and refrigeration systems, sign installation, and residential.

Michigan: Michigan law requires the licensing of electrical contractors and electricians to install any electric wiring, devices, appliances, or appurtenances for the generation, distribution and utilization of electrical energy within or on any building, structure or property. Michigan also provides a number of licensing exemptions similar to that addressed under s. 101.862 (4), Stats.

Minnesota: Minnesota law dictates that electrical work be performed by state licensed electrical contractors and electricians or under the direct supervision of licensed electricians. The contractor's license is a business type credential and not a personal license allowing the individual to perform electrical work or supervision. The state's licensure process includes an examination.

8. Summary of Factual Data and Analytical Methodologies

The proposed rules were developed by reviewing the provisions under 2007 Wisconsin Act 63, in conjunction with the current electrical certification rules under ch. Comm 5. The rules were developed with input from the Comm 16 Electric Code Advisory Council.

9. Analysis and Supporting Documents used to Determine Effect on Small Business or in Preparation of Economic Impact Report

The proposed rules implement the mandates imposed by 2007 Wisconsin Act 63. The department does not believe that the proposed rules will increase the effect on small businesses over that imposed by the Act.

An economic impact report has not been required pursuant to s. 227.137, Stats.
