Section 125.28(5)(e), Stats., as created by 2011 Wisconsin Act 32, provides “[t]he department shall promulgate rules to administer and enforce the requirements under this subsection. The department shall establish by rule minimum requirements for warehouse facilities on premises described in permits issued under this section and for periodic site inspections by the department of such warehouse facilities.”

- Describes the minimum requirements for fermented malt beverage wholesaler warehouse facilities.
- Details the process for applying for wholesalers’ permits.
- Provides guidance regarding eligibility for out-of-state shippers’ permits.

Summary of, and comparison with, existing or proposed federal regulation:

Federal law, 27 U.S.C. Chapter 8, the Federal Alcohol Administration Act (FAAA) provides for the regulation of persons engaged in the alcohol beverage industry, and for the protection of consumers. The FAAA includes provisions to require a permit for those who engage in the business as a producer, importer, or wholesaler of alcohol beverages, and to ensure that labeling and advertising of alcohol beverages provides adequate information to consumers. Sections 7805 and 5051 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to administer requirements for qualifying a brewery, operating a brewery, and for paying tax and labeling beer removed from a brewery. These duties are the responsibility of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau of the U.S. Department of the Treasury (TTB). Regulations in 27 CFR part 25 implement the IRC beer provisions and include requirements on brewers that cover the production, removal, and tax payment of beer. TTB has issued Industry Circular Number 2005-2 providing guidance to brewers who wish to obtain TTB approval of a contract brewing arrangement. According to the Industry Circular, "a 'contract brewing arrangement' is a business relationship in which one person, such as a wholesale or retail dealer or a brewer, pays a brewing company, the 'contract brewer' to produce beer for him or her. The contract brewer is entirely responsible for producing the beer, keeping appropriate brewery records, labeling the beer with its name and address, obtaining necessary certificates of label approval (COLAs), and paying tax at the appropriate rate upon removal of the beer from the brewery. TTB considers contract brewing arrangements to be ordinary commercial arrangements." In a contract brewing arrangement, only one person, the contract brewer, must qualify as a brewer under 27 CFR part 25. The beer may be sold back to the person on whose behalf the beer was produced under contract, or to wholesalers, retailers, or to the ultimate consumer. If the person on whose behalf the beer is produced under contract resells the beer to a dealer, that person must hold a federal basic permit from TTB as a wholesaler under the FAAA.

Comparison with rules in adjacent states:

The Iowa Alcoholic Beverages Division of the Iowa Department of Commerce issues permits for the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages, including fermented malt beverages, as authorized by the Iowa Administrative Code Chapter 185.

The Illinois Liquor Control Commission issues brewer's licenses to any person who is engaged in the manufacture of beer, as authorized by Illinois Compiled Statutes (235ILCS5/) the Illinois Liquor Control Act and rules in Illinois Administrative Code, Title 11, Subtitle A, Part 100.

The Michigan Liquor Control Commission issues beer manufacturer licenses to: brewers authorizing the licensee to manufacture and sell the beer they brew. (Michigan Compiled Laws Sections 436.1105 through 436.1113, 436.1201, and 436.1203, and administrative code sections 436.1601 through 436.1659.)

The Minnesota Department of Public Safety Alcohol and Gambling Enforcement Division issues manufacturer's licenses to brewers, who may also be issued a wholesaler's license to sell the brewer's product at wholesale provided the brewer was selling their own products at wholesale in Minnesota on January 1, 1991. A licensed brewer may sell the brewer's products at wholesale only if the brewer has been issued a wholesaler's license. (2011 Minnesota statutes 340A.301, and Minnesota Administrative Rule Chapter 7515).

Summary of factual data and analytical methodologies: 2011 Wisconsin Act 32 amended numerous sections in Chapter 125 Subchapter II affecting the three-tier system regulating the production, distribution and sale of fermented malt beverages (beer) in Wisconsin. The amendments converted the municipal beer wholesaler's license from a license issued by a local municipality to a statewide permit issued by the Department of Revenue. Act 32 also changed the requirements for obtaining a beer wholesaler's permit and for obtaining an out-of-state shipper's permit, and restructured the brewer's permit.

In consultation with manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers of fermented malt beverages, the department has created this proposed rule order to satisfy the above requirements. No other data was used in the preparation of this proposed rule order or this analysis.

Analysis and supporting documents used to determine effect on small business: This proposed rule is created in accordance with 2011 Wisconsin Act 32 to administer and enforce statutory requirements relating to the production, distribution and sale of fermented malt beverages, consistent with the legislature's support for the three-tier system and with the Federal Alcohol Administration Act as implemented by the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau (TTB). As explained above, the proposed rule is created to reflect changes to Wisconsin law regulating fermented malt beverages. As the rule itself does not impose any significant financial or other compliance burden, the department has determined that it does not have a significant effect on small business.

Anticipated costs incurred by private sector: This proposed rule does not have a significant fiscal effect on the private sector.

Effect on small business: This proposed rule does not have a significant effect on small business.
