9. Policy Problem Addressed by the Rule Under section 101.055 (3) of the Statutes, the Department is required to adopt, by rule, standards to protect the safety and health of public-sector employees. The standards must provide protection that is at least equal to the protection which is provided to private-sector employees under standards promulgated by the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), and must be revised as necessary to maintain that equivalent protection. Chapter SPS 332 currently includes, by reference, the July 1, 2003, edition of these OSHA standards – except for maximum-permissible-exposure limits for air contaminants, which are carried forward from the 1992 edition. This rulemaking would primarily update this chapter to include the July 1, 2010, edition of these OSHA standards, and would no longer substitute the 1992 air-contaminants limits in place of the more-recent OSHA limits.
