15. Benefits of Implementing the Rule and Alternative(s) to Implementing the Rule The benefit of implementing the rule is to bring CB 2 into conformity with the statutory requirement that a minimum time period be set for which a cemetery authority must retain burial records. The alternative of implementing the rule is to leave the rules out of compliance with state statute, or to implement a rule requiring a shorter retention period. In the view of the board, it is reasonable to require a cemetery authority to retain indefinitely a record of the individuals buried within its cemetery.
16. Long Range Implications of Implementing the Rule The long range implication of implementing the rule is that cemetery authorities will have clarity as to how long they must retain burial records.

Fiscal Estimate & Economic Impact Analysis

17. Compare With Approaches Being Used by Federal Government

The federal government does not set requirements for how long burial records must be retained.

18. Compare With Approaches Being Used by Neighboring States (Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Minnesota)

Illinois: Illinois requires cemetery authorities to keep a record of every interment, entombment, and inurnment. The record must include the deceased's name, age, date of burial, and the specific location of the interred, entombed, or inurned human remains. (225 ILCS 411/20-5 (d)). Neither statute nor rule specifies the length of time that the record must be retained for.

Iowa: Iowa requires cemeteries to keep a record of each interment in a cemetery, including the date the remains were interred, the name, date of birth, date of death, and a unique identifier for the location of the interment space. There is no specification regarding how long these records must be maintained. (Iowa Stats. s. 523I.311).

Michigan: Michigan does not appear to require that cemeteries maintain burial records.

Minnesota: Minnesota requires cemeteries to keep a register of burials including the date of each burial, entombment, or cremation, and the name, age, sex, nativity, and cause of death of every person interred or cremated in the cemetery. There is no specification regarding how long these records must be maintained. (Minn. Stats. s. 306.03).
