17. Compare With Approaches Being Used by Federal Government
None

18. Compare With Approaches Being Used by Neighboring States (Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Minnesota)

Illinois: Hearing specialist trainees may receive a 6-month dispenser license, which is non-renewable. An applicant for a 6-month trainee dispenser license is required to submit a letter of verification from the licensed supervisor and a completed trainee form signed by the supervisor. Before a trainee license will be issued, the trainee must complete required courses and pay the trainee license fee (77 Ill. Adm. Code 682.200).

A licensed trainee may perform the functions of a hearing instrument dispenser under direct supervision of a designated licensed hearing instrument dispenser or audiologist. The designated licensed supervisor is responsible for all work performed by the trainee. One supervisor may supervise a limit of 3 trainees at any point in time (77 Ill. Adm. Code 682.215).

"Direct supervision" requires the licensed hearing instrument dispenser or audiologist to give final approval to all work performed by the trainee, sign off on all progress notes and contracts, and be physically present anytime the trainee has contact with a client (77 Ill. Adm. Code 682.100).

Iowa: Iowa Statutes chapter 645, section 121.2 allows the Iowa Board of Hearing Aid Specialists to issue temporary permits for hearing aid specialists trainees. Temporary permits are issued for one year and are non-renewable. The permit application includes a statement from the employer outlining the type of supervision to be provided to the trainee; a list of the subjects to be covered; the materials to be used for training; and an outline of the training program to be followed in preparing the trainee for examination.

A licensed hearing aid specialist employing a trainee with a temporary permit is responsible for:

- providing training;
- evaluating audiograms and determining which hearing aid and ear mold will best compensate for hearing loss of a particular person;
- notifying the board within 15 days of the termination of the trainee; and,
- for the first 90 days, providing a minimum of 20 hours of direct supervision per week in the physical presence of a holder of a temporary permit.

A licensed hearing aid specialist may supervise up to 3 trainees with temporary permits at the same time. Supervisors must cosign all audiometric evaluations and contracts processed by the trainee for the duration of the temporary permit and submit a report for trainees prior to taking the board-approved examination and any retakes.

Michigan: Under Michigan statutes s. 339.1307, a Hearing Aid Trainee license is available through the Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs. A trainee license is valid for one year. A new trainee license may be issued by the board upon the filing of an application. The application fee is $50.

Michigan requires a trainee work for and under the direction and supervision of a named licensed hearing aid dealer. A license may be transferred by a trainee to a new dealer upon the filing of an application for a transfer. There is no identified limit on the number of trainees that a named licensed hearing aid dealer may supervise.

Minnesota: A person may be approved to dispense hearing instruments as a trainee for a period not to exceed 12 months. Trainees must be under the supervision of a certified dispenser and must meet all requirements for certification except successful completion of the required examination.

ADMINISTRATIVE RULES

Fiscal Estimate & Economic Impact Analysis

There are 2 levels of supervision for a trainee, indirect and direct. A certified hearing instrument dispenser may indirectly supervise up to 2 trainees at the same time and directly supervise only one trainee at a time. Under indirect supervision, the trainee must complete 2 monitored activities a week. Monitored activities may be executed by correspondence, telephone, or other telephonic devices, and include evaluation of audiograms, written reports, and contracts. The trainee's time spent under supervision must be recorded and the record retained by the supervisor.

The certified dispenser is responsible for all actions or omissions of a trainee in connection with the dispensing of hearing instruments. Trainees must be directly supervised in all activities prior to passing the practical exam. Once a trainee passes the practical exam, trainees may dispense hearing instruments under indirect supervision until expiration of the trainee period. (Section 153A.14, 2020 Minnesota Statutes)
