

Wisconsin Legislative Council Staff

Prepared by: Anne Sappenfield, Director

BACKGROUND

The Wisconsin Legislative Council and Staff were created in 1947 by Chapter 444, Laws of 1947. The Council was a committee of 12 legislators and was charged to conduct studies of matters of concern to the Legislature, either during or between sessions of the Legislature, and to report its recommendations to the next general or special session. The Staff consisted of an executive director and two assistants.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL TODAY

The current Legislative Council staff consists of 20 attorneys and analysts and four administrative staff. The staff's responsibilities to the Legislature have greatly expanded over time. The staff provides confidential, nonpartisan services to all members of the Legislature to support the institution as a whole and the work of individual legislators.

Today's Joint Legislative Council is a 22-member committee whose membership includes the entire leadership of the Legislature. The Joint Legislative Council and the Legislative Council staff continue to conduct studies, commonly referred to as study committees, which develop legislation to address important issues facing the Legislature. In addition, the Legislative Council:

- Provides legal and policy research and analysis to legislative committees, legislative task forces, and individual legislators to support legislators' work in developing and preparing to vote on legislation. In addition, the staff assist legislators and their staff in responding to legal and policy questions raised by outside stakeholders and constituents.
