NATIONAL CONFERENCE OF COMMISSIONERS
ON UNIFORM STATE LAWS

October 15, 2012

- Address the many difficulties service members and their families face relating upon deployment
  - Often there is not enough time to resolve matters through ordinary custody procedures in court
  - Out-of-court transfers of custody are common
  - Regaining custody or visitation rights after deployment is not always straight-forward

Why uniformity?

- Avoid patchwork of laws across states
- High mobility of service members
  - multi-jurisdictional disputes are highly common
  - military families still struggled with the wide variance of regulation across jurisdictions
- Federal solution? Family law and custody issues are traditionally the province of state law, the ULC decided that a uniform law for adoption across the states would be more appropriate

UDPCVA: Enactments

UDPCVA: Important Provisions

- Out-of-Court Resolution: simplifies the process for out-of-court resolution of custody issues by providing clear guidance on form and substance of agreements
- 2. Judicial Resolution: when an agreement is not possibly, the act makes it easier for the service member to participate in judicial process (ideally, in-person) and helps avoid extended proceedings and related costs
- 3. Temporary, Unless Consent: makes clear that custody orders under the Act are temporary in nature, unless the service member consents to a permanent change
- 4. Delegation of Service Member's Rights: a court may, at the request of the deploying parent, delegate the service member's portion of custodial responsibility to an adult non-parent who is either a family member or another individual with a close and substantial relationship with the child, if such an assignment would be in the child's best interest

- 5. Transition after Deployment: temporary custody arrangements do not automatically terminate immediately upon return of the service member in order to safeguard child's best interest (includes a limited period of transition)
- 6. Maintain Relationships with Limited Contact Visitation: the UDPCVA provides for a unique form of visitation known as "limited contact" designed to help service members maintain their relationship with the child while away
- 7. Focus on Significant Impacts of Deployment: a judge shall not consider the service member's past or future deployment alone as a negative factor in determining the child's best interest. However, a judge may consider "significant effects" of deployment
