DWD 295.20(3), relating to enforcement of indenture agreements and affecting small businesses.

Analysis Prepared by the Department of Workforce Development

Statutory authority: Sections 106.01 (9) and 227.11 (2), Stats.

Statutes interpreted: Section 106.01 (5j), Stats.

Related statute or rule: NA

Explanation of agency authority. Section 106.01 (5j), Stats., provides that the department may on its own motion, or on the complaint of any person, after due notice and a hearing, make findings and issue orders declaring any indenture at an end if it is proved at the hearing that any apprentice, employer or organization that is a party to the indenture is unable to continue with the obligations under the indenture or has breached the indenture.

Section 106.01 (9), Stats., provides that the department may investigate, fix reasonable classifications, issue rules and general or special orders and, hold hearings, make findings and render orders upon its findings as shall be necessary to carry out the intent and purposes of s. 106.01, Stats. Orders issued are subject to review under ch. 227, Stats.

Summary of the proposed rules. The current procedure for enforcement of an indenture agreement allows any person alleging that an indenture has not been complied with to file a complaint with the department. The department may investigate the complaint and attempt to resolve it by conference, conciliation, and persuasion. If the department is unable to resolve the complaint by conference, conciliation, or persuasion, it notifies the parties. If the complaint requested that the department cancel the indenture agreement, the notice informs the parties that the agreement will be cancelled 20 days from the date of the notice, unless any party receiving the notice makes a request in writing for a hearing on the matter.

The department, the Apprenticeship Advisory Council, and apprenticeship customers agree that there is a timeliness problem with the current procedure. The current conciliation process takes 5-6 months and the full appeal process takes 9 months to one year. During this time, apprentices stay in the same apprenticeship status they are in at the time of the appeal. If in an active status, apprentices who have failed school still attend school, and apprentices who have demonstrated that they are not capable of doing the work still need to be placed at job sites.

The proposed rule repeals the conference, conciliation, and persuasion provision. If a party to an indenture wants to cancel the contract, the department will send an intent to cancel letter. The apprentice has 20 days to object and explain why the contract should not be cancelled. If the department receives a timely objection, it will conduct an investigation. If the investigation supports cancellation, the apprentice will be promptly cancelled. The apprentice may appeal the decision but the apprenticeship will remain cancelled throughout the appeal process.

The proposed rule will also require that a hearing be transcribed and allow a party to obtain a copy of the transcript by purchasing a copy from the transcription agency. The current rule does not require transcription unless a written request is made by any party. However, under current practice, the hearing examiners generally request a transcription. A written transcript also supports administrative review. In addition, the proposed rule will replace the term “division” with “department.” The current rule refers to the division of apprenticeship and training, which no longer exists.

Summary of factual data and analytical methodologies. Before presenting the rule for revision, the Apprenticeship Advisory Council and the Bureau of Apprenticeship Standards presented the proposed rule to apprenticeship customers through the State Committee process. Representatives from key organizations supported this change, including: Associated Builders and Contractors; AGC of Wisconsin; AGC of Milwaukee; National Electrical Contractors Association, both the State Chapter and the Milwaukee Chapter; Mechanical Contractors of Wisconsin; Sheet Metal Employer Association; United Brotherhood of Carpenters--Southern District; IBEW--all locals; Ironworkers--both locals; Laborers District Council; Sheet Metal Workers; Steamfitters--all locals; Sprinkler Fitters Local 183; State AFL-CIO; and Painters & Decorators District Council.

Comparison with federal law. Federal law provides that apprenticeship programs and apprentice agreements may be registered with the federal Department of Labor (DOL) or a recognized state apprenticeship agency that has been properly constituted under acceptable law or executive order and has been approved by DOL for state registration or approval of local apprenticeship programs and agreements for federal purposes. Complaints arising under an apprentice agreement may be submitted to the appropriate authority. A state apprenticeship agency may adopt a complaint review procedure that differs from the federal procedure.

The federal complaint procedure provides that a complaint shall be submitted within 60 days of the final local decision and shall set forth the specific matter complained of, together with all relevant facts and circumstances. DOL or the recognized state agency shall render an opinion within 90 days after receipt of the complaint. During the 90-day period, DOL or the state agency shall make reasonable efforts to effect a satisfactory resolution between the parties involved.

Comparison with rules in adjacent states. In Illinois, Iowa, and Michigan, the U.S. Department of Labor resolves complaints under apprentice agreements pursuant to 29 CFR 29.1.

In Minnesota, complaints are resolved by the state apprenticeship agency. The state apprenticeship director conducts the initial investigation and issues a determination. If any person aggrieved by the decision files an appeal within 10 days of the date of service of the notice of decision, the agency appoints a hearing board composed of 3 members of the apprenticeship advisory council. The hearing board holds a hearing on the appeal and submit a recommended decision to the agency commissioner. The commissioner may adopt the recommended decision of the hearing board or disregard the decision and prepare a decision based on the findings of fact. Any person aggrieved by the agency decision may appeal to circuit court.

Effect on small businesses. The proposed rule affects small businesses as defined in s. 227.114 (1), Stats.

Analysis to determine effect on small business. The changes in the proposed rule will allow complaints under an indenture agreement to be resolved more quickly and without apprentices remaining in the apprenticeship pending the determination. This will relieve businesses of the hardship of maintaining apprentices who have demonstrated that they are not capable of doing the work during a lengthy appeal process.
